Subject SOSSENKO identified himself as a mechanical engineer and former employee of the MICHELIN TIRE COMPANY, where for 20 years he worked as the firm's chief engineer in charge of tire testing. Currently, he engages in dual employment. First, he  own and operate an import-export firm dealing in used tire retreading equipment. SOSSENKO advised that the vast majority of their business is in Latin America. Indeed, in that part of the world. Besides the import-export business, the subject is employed as a bookkeeper at NORMAN'S, a women's apparel shop, 3226 Peachtree Road, N.E., Atlanta, Georgia, telephone number (404) 237-4656.

SOSSENKO further advised that he was a native of the Soviet Union. However, six months after his birth, his family, who was anti-Communist, emigrated from the USSR to France. Shortly thereafter, they continued on to South America, where SOSSENKO was reared, and where he spent the greater portion of his life, prior to coming to the United States in the latter part of his MICHELIN career. Given this background, the subject stated that he is fluent in Russian and Spanish as well as English.

Lastly, SOSSENKO volunteered that he was a recovered alcoholic, whose drinking problem, at one time, was severe enough to cost him his first marriage and his position with MICHELIN. According to the subject, he was able to effect his recovery with the assistance of the ALCOHOLICS ANONYMOUS (AA) organization. Currently, the subject himself is active in the local chapter of AA in a counseling capacity.

For the information of the Bureau, subject SOSSENKO was fully cooperative with this investigation

Review of Atlanta indices for prior references to the subject revealed AT file 67-23269. Review of this file revealed that in the fall of 1982, Mr. SOSSENKO sought employment with the FBI as a translator/interpreter, specializing in Russian. Background investigation conducted at the time failed to uncover any derogatory information concerning the subject. However, on 9/28/82, the subject advised the Atlanta Division that he was no longer interested in Bureau employment.
